The Guide to Grants for Individuals in Need 2018/19

Judith Turner and Mairéad Bailie

Do you help individuals and families in need of emergency financial help? This comprehensive, up-to-date and easy-to-navigate guide containing 1700 grant-making charities giving £308.5 million in funds, will simplify the often difficult task of finding the most appropriate support for your clients by outlining the eligibility criteria, amounts available and how to apply.

You'll benefit from extensive advice on how to select funds and make successful applications, as well as a directory of useful organisations.

The 16th edition of The Guide to Grants for Individuals in Need, containing over 200 new grant-makers, is the only publication to provide a comprehensive listing of all sources of non-statutory funding available for individuals in the UK.

Who should buy this book?

It is particularly useful for key workers, social workers, advisors and housing officers, as well as charity helpline operators. Charity fundraising teams will also find it a vital guide to the funds available.

Selling Points

This is your guide to every fund geared towards helping those living in poverty.

- Clear, easy-to-navigate sections.
- Cross-referenced indexes, to help you find the right fund.
- Detailed information on each funder, including how to apply.
- Lists of specialist support organisations who could also help.
- Records are up-to-date and comprehensive including information provided by charities themselves.

What they said about the previous edition

'Our clients are vulnerable people who need all the help we can give them. This guide helps us give that help by pinpointing possible sources of funding – funding that we might never have been aware of were it not for this guide.'

Charmaine Davies, Housing Advice Worker, Cheltenham Housing Aid Centre

'An informative and highly recommended tool which has been invaluable in helping us to access appropriate funding streams for our service users and alleviate their hardship.'

Steve Hawkins, Chief Executive, Local Solutions
